Stockholm, Sweden, July 20 — (AP) — Three Lithuanian refugees have arrived in Sweden after overpowering the crew of a small Russian ship at sea.

The Lithuanians told police they fed up with life behind the Iron Curtain and wanted to go to the United States.

The fugitives said they took up three Russian crew members of the Trawler Samara below decks, took all navigating equipment and escaped in the only lifeboat to Kalmar, Sweden.

The Russians drifted helplessly until they were picked up by a Swedish captain and brought to a Swedish port.

Going to Be Tough for Jap Survival

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, July 20 — (AP) — The Japanese with whom we shall soon sign a peace treaty, face tough going to survive.

The eighty million of them crowded into the four islands which are all that's left of Japan, have to import to survive.

That goes for food and for raw material for their factories. There's nothing new about that. They had to do it before the war.

Although they must import at least 15 per cent of their food, they haven't been doing too badly in that field. Their food standard now is 95 per cent of pre-war.

But they've had a lot of help from us in that. The U. S., as the occupying power, has spent $2,000,000,000 in the past six years to supply Japan with food and other things.

After the treaty we'll probably have to keep on helping the Japanese to some extent, although the how and how much are vague at the moment. Right now there's no plan before congress to give Japan economic aid.

Axle from bed, the rest of the Japanese living standard is only 80 per cent of pre-war. Japan is in the peculiar position of being the most industrialized nation in Asia but has no raw materials of its own. It has to import everything, including rubber, oil, coal, iron ore.

It built synthetic oil and rubber plants but we shut them down. When the treaty is signed, the Japanese can start them again.

But Japan and overseas powers seem to draw upon for raw materials — Korea, Manchuria, Formosa — and it was ab le to import from other countries whatever else it needed, mostly at low cost.

Under the peace treaty Japan not only loses all its overseas possessions but all its assets and investments in the 50 nations which were at war with her. So, to keep going, Japan must import at least 15 per cent of its food and all its raw materials. And that brings in another major problem: Shipping.

Before the war Japan had a large merchant fleet which enabled her to import the materials she needed at low shipping costs, and the cost of the materials was low when she could buy them from Asia's low-cost countries.

Because of the low-cost circle in shipping, buying, and manufacturing — she was able to sell on world markets at the list a rate of profit which enabled her to keep expanding her factories.

Now her merchant fleet is only 20 per cent of pre-war. Unless she can build up that fleet, to keep down her shipping rates, she'll have to hire foreign ships at great cost, boosting the cost of what she manufactures.

The British, for one, are concerned about any expansion of Japanese shipping. A large Japanese merchant fleet, hauling not only Japanese goods but the goods of other nations to make money for Japan, would rival the British merchant fleet which is working the same side of the street.

At any rate, to keep Japan as an ally after the treaty, the Western Powers will have to help the Japanese with raw materials even though, because of their own rearmament program, they're hard pressed for raw materials on their own.

If they put tight limits on what Japan can have, Japanese recovery will be tightly limited. If it becomes too limited, the Japanese may feel it necessary to make deals with China and Russia for materials at lower cost.

If this country and all its Allies don't want any to close tie-ups between Japan and China and Russia, Japan's stability will not only be a problem for Japan but for the West, too.

Uncertain Fate for Welfare Plan

Washington, July 20 — (AP) — A senate-approved proposal to permit states to open their welfare rolls to public inspection without losing federal aid faced an uncertain fate in the house today.

House leaders indicated there might be some foot-dragging in acting on a bill increasing the federal share of old-age assistance and other relief programs by about $140,000,000 a year.

The senate, by a rollcall vote of 28 to 30 yesterday tacked onto the bill an amendment by Senators Jenner (R-Ind.) and Dirksen (R-Ill.) to prevent the withholding of federal funds from states which open to the public their relief rolls.

Indian and Illinois have passed laws doing so. The federal government already has threatened to cut off its assistance to Indiana. Dirksen said he feared a similar move against his state.

Jenner said public inspection of the rolls is the only way to rid them of "cheats and chiselers," but Senator Kerr (D-Okla.) feared the move would put "old folks x x x" at the mercy of every taxpayer who cares to go and examine the rolls.

The bill, passed by the senate by voice vote, would make a $3-a-month boost in the federal share of relief grants to the aged, blind and totally disabled and a $1.64 increase to dependent children.

Under the senate-approved formula for old-age assistance, the federal government would pay three-fourths of the first $24 in each monthly grant and half of the next $27, up to $53. Any payments above $53 would have to be financed entirely by the states. The federal government now pays three-fourths of the first $20 and half of the next $30, with a $50 ceiling.

The bill carries similar increases for the other federal-state programs — grants to the blind, total disabled and dependent children.

Sherman Silent on Talk With Franco

London, July 20 — (AP) — Adm. Forrest P. S. Sherman will confer tonight with Generalissimo Franco on his arrival today in Britain, whose labor government strongly opposes any American deal with Spain.

The chief of U. S. naval operations flew here from Paris in a U. S. navy transport plane. He was lunching with Lord Pakenham, first lord of the admiralty, the British equivalent of the U. S. navy secretary, Lord Fraser, first sea lord. Sherman's British opposite, and chiefs of staff of Britain's other military services.

After lunch Sherman and Fraser planned a huddle at the admiralty. Their talks were expected to range over the wide question of Atlantic defense. Sherman also may give Fraser an intimate picture of his moves toward getting American naval and air bases in Spain.

"I have no comment on Spain," Sherman told newsmen at London airport.

What were his reactions to Franco, the newsmen pressed. "No comment," replied Sherman. Then Sherman added as an aside to U. S. Rear Adm. Walter F. Boone, who met him here:

"I am trying to see if I can get around Europe and back home to report to my government without having said anything to the newspapers."

In Paris, Sherman conferred with Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, the Atlantic pact commander, and top officers of the French navy.

While here, Sherman also will talk with U. S. Ambassador Walter S. Gifford.

Sherman planned to leave by plane at midnight for Naples to confer with U. S. Amb. Robert

Such agreement on agenda items would mean only that the opposing parties have agreed on what to talk about, not settled the issues.

Lopes Is Favored in Portugal

Lisbon, Portugal, July 20 (AP)—Gen. Francisco Humberto Craveiro Lopes, presidential candidate of the ruling National party, is not expected to have much trouble in Sunday's election, his last remaining opponent withdrew from the race last night.

The opposition contender, Quintao Meirelles, claimed the government had not granted him the same facilities to conduct his campaign that it extended to Lopes. For one thing, he said, he was not allowed to use the national

Tells of Try to Buck Ring of Gamblers

Washington, July 19 — UP — An Atlantic City police officer testified today that a group of young policemen set out to buck the powerful political organization and campaign against open gambling which flourished in the New Jersey playground.

Fred J. Warlich told the senate crime committee that he worked with Jack Pivrotok, Francis J. Azbin and a number of other young officers on were on the at police force to conduct 20 gambling raids in the six-month period from last November through April.

He said the raids were conducted despite the insistence of older men on the force that gambling was too well entrenched, the "organization" was too powerful, and its opponents would get their "heads knocked off."

Warlich said gambling was being conducted openly in the city. Besides "numbers," he said, book-making was commonplace with floating card and "dice games." Brookmakers, he said, were set up "mostly in cigar stores" and in "cabanas" in front of luxury hotels along the boardwalk where "card games" took place at night.

Newsreel cameras ground away as Warlich told his story, but the hearing was not televised.

Committee Counsel Richard G. Noser asked Warlich to tell about Atlantic City's "organization."

"The organization is composed of various war leaders... each with his precinct captains," Warlich said. "They are the powers in the city. They can prevent anyone from doing anything against their wish."

Warlich also described his attempt to get the backing of State Senator Frank S. Farley for a drive to get Atlantic City freemen and policemen a pay raise. He said he went to Farley because "It is a known fact that anything you get in Atlantic City, you have to get the senator's O. K."

DOROTHY DIX

No Cooperation

Dear Miss Dix: How is a mother every turn? And especially how is a stepmother to help the children if their father takes their part in everything? They do and makes them think that the stepmother's ideas are silly and useless? I married a widower with two boys, 12 and 14 years of age. They had been taught no table manners, not even how to speak correctly. I am very anxious to be of some real service to these children, but when I try to get them to eat wholesome food instead of stuffing themselves on candies and cookies their father makes fun of me before them. When I ask them to do some little household task, he thinks it is funny when they imprudently refuse. And when the oldest boy uses vile language and calls the other child horrible names and I try to stop him, the father says: "What's wrong with it?" Is there anything I can do about it?

Discouraged Stepmother
Answer: It takes teamwork, a mother and father working together to bring up children properly and it is virtually impossible for either one to do it alone and turn out a good job.

Youngsters Catch On
Children are amazingly clever and soon find out which parent is the soft one who can be enjoyed or frightened or worn down into giving them their way. This nullifies all family discipline. For when little Johnny discovers that he can appeal from Father to Mother, or from Mother to Father, he is left free to follow his own sweet will.

It is very difficult for even an own mother, whose children have the habit of affection for her, to do anything with her youngsters if their father opposes her attempts to rear them properly. And for a stepmother the task becomes impossible under such conditions. For the children in addition to their instinctive dislike for being civilized, always think that the stepmother is trying to impose upon them. If you are strongly imbued with the missionary spirit, you may continue your efforts to turn your adolescent stepchildren into gentlemen but with their father thwarting you at every step, fear it will be a labor lost.

Dear Miss Dix: Is there anything wrong in widows and widowers marrying again? Life in the later years can be very lonesome for people between 50 and 65 whose families are grown up and in their own homes.

Answer: Many widows and widowers of the ages you mention find happiness in marriage, after they have brought up their children. It is much better to settle down with a companion your own age than to hang onto your children like a millstone and make their lives, as well as your own, miserable. Companionable people in the twilight of life, who share similar interests such as music, books, gardening or even travel can live out their days in usefulness and contentment, contributing the sum of their wisdom to the betterment of community life.

Such marriages seem an idyllic solution, but unfortunately the ever present problem of middle-aged loneliness is not a simple one. The difficulty lies chiefly in the scarcity of men in the upper age brackets as contrasted to the number of women who are long-lived. Many have a shorter life span than women which leaves most widowed men to combat the vicissitudes of age. Most of them, thank heaven, do a very creditable job of it!

Dear Miss Dix: For some time I have been going with a fellow who has asked me to marry him, but I refused as I do not love him. My grandmother heard of his proposal and told me that I was silly not to accept his offer. She says these days you can't marry for love but must think of a husband who will give you a good home. I know this chap will do that but I think it is foolish to marry someone you don't love. I am 18, and this boy is 25.

Answer: I have a tremendous respect for grandmothers, and usually find their advice of great value so I am sorry indeed to have to disagree with your grandmother. Nothing could be worse than her suggestion that you marry someone you don't love. You're only 18 and have lots of time to find a man you'll really love and who can also give you a good home. Have your good times for a while yet. Grandma in this case is a little out of line.

To Probe Flogging of Five Prisoners

Canon City, Colo., July 20 — (AP) — Gov. Dan Thornton and other state officials today planned to investigate the flogging of five prisoners at the Colorado Penitentiary.

Thornton ordered the board of institutions to come here and have a physician examine the convicts.

Warden Roy Best said five convicts who made an escape attempt last Monday were whipped with a leather strap six inches wide and two and a half feet long.

Best said the five were hit "eight, maybe 10 or 12 times" by guards. They were bent over a "horse" in the prison gymnasium.

A Denver Post reporter who talked to the men said it was a "savage whipping." But Best said it was "not savage." Price Boris-see, state director of institutions, said he didn't consider that there was any "undue brutality."

Truman Appeals for Red Cross Funds

Washington, July 20 — (AP) — President Truman has appealed to Americans to donate at least $5,000,000 through their local Red Cross chapters for flood relief in Kansas, Missouri, Oklahoma and Illinois.

The appeal was made yesterday in a letter to Red Cross President E. Roland Harriman. At the same time, Mr. Truman allocated $275,000 of existing federal funds for emergency relief in answer to a request from Missouri Gov. Warren E. Hearnes.

A like amount was allowed last Saturday for Kansas flood sufferers.

Nations Invited to Sign Jap Treaty

Washington, July 20 — (AP) — In vital talks are going out today to the nations which declared war on Japan to meet at San Francisco Sept. 4 to sign a Japanese peace treaty.

Officials said the United States and Britain were sponsoring the invitations. They were addressed to 40 other countries, including Russia since Russia has sharply criticized the treaty making procedure, most authorities here believe Moscow will turn down the bid.

BEND SAWAR

Ankara, Turkey, July 20 — (AP) — The Turkish national assembly today approved a draft bill formally ending the state of war with Germany.

mission from Mayor Marro, by the irate contender said he would hold the meeting anyway. The mix-up caused little public stir. It was fifth time in the past three years that the council has switched Navarro and Vega as mayor.

Panama City Is Back to One Mayor

Panama, Panama, July 20 — (AP) — Panama City was back to one mayor today, but a second claimant to the office was not taking it lightly.

The mix-up began eight days ago when the city council — continuing a long-standing feud — ordered Mayor Alberto Navarro out of office.

At once Navarro's arch political rival, deputy Mayor Angel Vega, announced he was donning the mantle of chief city executive.

Navarro, however, declared he would ignore the council's action and continue to carry on his mayoral duties.

Last night — after a visit from President Alcibiades Arosemena — the council decided reversed its action and reinstated Navarro.

Arosemena's government had said it would continue to reorganize Navarro unless the courts ruled him out of office.

Vega, outraged, announced he would hold a mass rally tonight to protest the latest ruling. Police said he'd first have to get permission from Mayor Marro, by the irate contender said he would hold the meeting anyway.

The mix-up caused little public stir. It was fifth time in the past three years that the council has switched Navarro and Vega as mayor.

LONG THOUGHTS

Who can measure the length of a thought? Especially the thought of a child! A good thought is like the acorn, which becomes the Live Oak tree, which may live for a thousand years. Some thoughts are much longer than that. Aristotle urged upon men the 'golden mean,' and many business men today are following him; he lived three hundred years before the beginning of our era. The decalogue, or Ten Commandments, are long thoughts about how we should live. Perhaps the thoughts stirring in this child's mind have been dropped there by a parent or by a teacher or by a neighbor. Isn't it rather wonderful that you and I can start a train of thinking and of living, in a child, that may go on forever? How long is 'forever'? That is how long some thoughts are.

Can you remember a word spoken to you in the long ago? Some of us treasure what seemed a chance thought passed to us by a careful teacher many years ago. When the soil is rich and a seed is sown, seeds are precious. Have you learned a lesson that you count of great value? Do you wish that someone had passed it to you when you were young? Then why not do, for some other child what you wish had been done for you? Would you not like to live forever in the esteem of another? Perhaps the child is our opportunity for some worthwhile immortality. Help her leave for posterity some long thoughts. What a pity that a good thought or a bit of wisdom we have garnered through many years should die with us! It does not need to be. The child near you is the good soil into which you may drop the good seed thought. "A sower went forth to sow." Every woman and every man is a sower. Is the seed good, that we sow? What will the harvest be? For the thoughts we are putting into the minds of retentive childhood? Your thoughts and mine may become inspiring or discouraging thoughts to these precious persons that we love. Is it important then that we think straight, clean, sweet, kind, loving thoughts? These should be long thoughts. Attend your church regularly.

YOU IN THE CHURCH

THE CHURCH IN YOU

Character is a by-product of the church. It is here that young and old alike are showered with benedictions stronger democracy. In the church the ministerial are molding religious character. Statutes today declare that the church alone can furnish leadership to handle the affairs of state in these perilous times. Then we with our children should go to the church of our choice on Sunday. "You in the Church and the Church in you" form a combination for good. Be a regular CHURCH GOER and a daily BIBLE READER.
